Triton's Smith Elected to FSPA Board of Directors

LONG BEACH, MS — Mark Smith, Senior Value-Added Reseller Manager with US-based ATM manufacturer Triton has been elected to the Financial and Security Products Association's (FSPA) board of directors.

Formed in 1973, FSPA is an independent association dedicated to independent companies involved in the manufacture, sales, installation and service of products sold primarily to financial institutions and commercial markets. As a part of the nine-member board of directors, Smith will help to guide FSPA, and provide ideas and solutions in order to better position FSPA members in the marketplace.

“FSPA is an outstanding association of veteran ATM industry professionals,” said Smith. “I hope to contribute greatly during my term on the board, and am truly honored to have this opportunity.”

Smith has more than a decade of experience in the ATM industry and is responsible for managing Triton's VAR program which focuses on products for financial institutions.

Board elections were held in late-May during FSPA's 36th Annual Conference & Manufacturers' Showcase in Dallas.
